Special education and integrated education models exist in Bangladesh. New initiatives need to undertake such as link programs between regular and special schools, dual placement provisions, development of special units in regular schools, initiation of model schools for others to follow and different education institutions and inter-agency collaboration to improve inclusive education practices. In the South Asian region, women are holding key political positions, ranging from heads of state to key ministerial positions yet participation in political governance is still slow. SAP-Bangladesh works at supporting the quest for women's rights, and the vital role of women to receive greater training in the development of leadership skills. On the advocacy awareness program, the organization ensures that measures are necessary to ensure women's participation in politics including lobbying for affirmative policies such as quotas.

The tradition of using violence to resolve issues is perceived as one of the key obstacles to women's peace and security in the region. Instilling fear in women so as not to participate in the political process, has been an impediment to women taking full part in the democratic process.

SAP-Bangladesh advocates for women's voices to be heard and wants concrete action to be taken that ensure women's inclusion at the decision making level, in formal peace processes as this would make a significant difference to the quality of the life of the women.

18. An overview of the major running programs of SAP-Bangladesh:

The goal of SAP-Bangladesh is to bring about the sustainable and equitable social, economic and political development of disadvantaged people in Bangladesh by strengthening the efforts of the community people at the grass-roots level.

South Asia Partnership-Bangladesh has been implementing a number of projects with multiple focuses for achieving the common goal of the organization that are illustrated below:

18.1 Micro Finance Program

Microfinance is the provision of financial services to low-income clients, including consumers and the self-employed, who traditionally lack access to banking and related services. More broadly, it is a movement whose object is a world in which as many poor and near-poor households as possible have permanent access to an appropriate range of high quality financial services, including not just credit but also savings, insurance, and fund transfers. Those who promote microfinance generally believe that such access will help poor people out of poverty.

In developing economies and particularly in the rural areas, many activities that would be classified in the developed world as financial are not monetized: that is, money is not used to carry them out. Almost by definition, poor people have very little money. But circumstances often arise in their lives in which they need money or the things money can buy.

Although Micro Credit is a recent initiative of SAP-Bangladesh, it has already promoted the economic empowerment of the poor and disadvantaged family, especially women-headed family in all over the country especially in the Chars and marginalized areas. SAP-Bangladesh maintains the following mentioned necessities in conducting its micro-finance activities:

- Lifecycle Needs: such as weddings, funerals, childbirth, education, home building, widowhood.
- Personal Emergencies: such as sickness, injury, unemployment, theft, harassment or death.
- Disasters: such as fires, floods, cyclones and man-made events.

In working with the marginalized peoples over the last 25 years, SAP- Bangladesh has adapted the strategies of empowering the disadvantaged section of the community through promoting human rights, establishing good governance and providing services in the form of micro-finance, quality education, disaster relief and post-disaster rehabilitation etc. SAP – Bangladesh believes that, increased production, fair distribution, greater knowledge and more food would mean more food for more people. In an extremely poor country like Bangladesh, fair distribution of resources is not possible unless there is a greater production of resources. Without increasing production of economic resources, fair distribution will result in fair distribution of poverty.

Therefore, SAP-Bangladesh has equally been emphasizing economic growth approach through micro-finance program. In response to the demands of the community people, SAP- Bangladesh is gradually expanding its micro-finance program.

SAP-Bangladesh started its micro-credit program in the late eighties. Initially, it was an experiment and the program operated in remote islands of the coastal belt. With the initial experience, SAP- Bangladesh expanded this program at Belkuchi Upazila of Sirajganj District in 2002.

After successful experimentation both in islands and main lands, SAP-Bangladesh decided to expand this program to other parts of the country. With a dream of expansion, SAP-Bangladesh became a partner of apex financing organization PKSF in October 2004. Since then, the program has been strengthened and is running quite smoothly. A panel of experts has been engaged to expand the micro-finance program.

Since inception of the program, SAP-Bangladesh has uplifted a good number of families from the poverty level. From very beginning, SAP-Bangladesh initiated the program as voluntary approach not for making profit. Considering that aspect, SAP-Bangladesh can mention that in the program areas, the beneficiaries cordially received SAP-Bangladesh from their heart.
